In 2013 CJAD began collecting data from interviews conducted in the field for the purpose of creating a new risk assessment tool for the community supervision population. Ms. Gurney has been involved in this project since the onset. At the beginning of the process, Ms. Gurney was one of numerous CSCD employees across the state who completed initial interviews on probation cases, scored the ORAS (Ohio Risk Assessment System) instrument based on information obtained in the interview process, and reported the information to CJAD for validation purposes. Based on the information received from the interviews conducted by field members across the state, CJAD was able to develop, validate, and norm the Texas Risk Assessment System (TRAS). In January 2015, CSCDs across the state of Texas will transition over from using the current risk need assessment tool (Wisconsin) to the newly developed TRAS assessment instrument. CSCD officers across the state of Texas will be required to be trained and certified on the new TRAS instrument. Ms. Gurney has continued her involvement in the TRAS transition by recently attending TRAS Training for Trainers. Since obtaining her TRAS Training for Trainers certification, Ms. Gurney has taken on the task of coordinating and scheduling training sessions for all Collin County CSCD supervision officers as well as officers from CSCDs in neighboring counties. She, along with co-trainers, Anthony Wiseman and Jill Pharr, will conduct four training sessions in the month of September (each training session last two days) so that all Collin County CSCD supervision officers will be trained and certified by the January 2015 transition date.
