Why the Honoree is receiving a GEM Award including dates:

Inger consistently provides excellent service to all patrons who visit the Law Library. She takes the initiative to conduct additional research to address patrons' needs while continuing to expand her own knowledge to better assist future patrons with similar legal research questions. She has also played an important role in cross-training our Assistant Law Librarian–Pro Se Coordinator. During periods of limited staffing, Inger has demonstrated the ability to work independently, and manage competing responsibilities. She has also developed comprehensive checklists for our various procedures, creating valuable reference tools for current and future staff. These checklists help ensure consistency in training, and minimize the risk of overlooking important steps in established processes. She took the lead in restructuring our newsletter and ensuring that all newsletter content and formatting comply with ADA accessibility requirements. Additionally, she has worked to transition our former mail catalog system into a digital format, helping modernize our processes and improve accessibility and efficiency. Inger's willingness to take initiative, support her colleagues, adapt to changing needs, and contribute innovative ideas has been greatly appreciated. Her dedication, resourcefulness, and commitment to improving the Law Library's services make her a valuable asset to our team.
