Kevin Hines

Is a brain/mental Health advocate, Award-winning global speaker, bestselling author and documentary filmmaker who reaches audiences with his story of an unlikely survival and his strong will to live. Two years after he was diagnosed with bipolar disorder (19 years of age), he attempted to take his life by jumping from the Golden Gate Bridge. He is one of only thirty-four to survive the fall, and the only one to regain full physical mobility. He is the only Golden Gate Bridge jump survivor who is spreading the message of living mentally healthy. The fall would break his body, but not his spirit. Today, Kevin dedicates his life to saving lives and spreading the message of hope and sharing his art of living mentally well. He is one of the most respected and admired voices of living experience. Kevin's story is a remarkable testament to the strength of the human spirit and a reminder for us to love the life we have.

Frank DeAngelis

Was a staff member at Columbine High School in the Jeffco School District in Littleton Colorado, since 1979. Frank has been involved in numerous professional activities and associations, and has received multiple awards for his teaching, leadership and coaching skills. He has also been called upon to speak about recovery after a school tragedy at a variety of conferences, and has assisted as a consultant after a number of other violent school events

Brad Negrete

Brad started his career in the criminal justice field in 2000, working at a maximum-security prison while attending college. After tragically losing his sister and three nephews, he decided to pursue dual degrees, earning a BA in Psychology in 2004 and a BS in Criminal Justice in 2005, both from the University of Nebraska at Omaha. During this time, Brad gained experience in the mental health field by working in different types of mental health facilities focused on adolescents and their families.
